when we found out that weymouth was definitely going to have two high schools, many of us balked at the idea. we were unwilling to be separated from our friends, and we recognized the problems involved with two football teams.

by the end of our junior year, however, pride got the better of us. students who would attend north in the fall boasted about it, and we boasted about south, hoping all the while that it would be as good a school as we wanted it to be.

finally, in september, we walked through south's doors for the first time. although like most american teenagers, we regretted the end of summer vacation, we were also eager to see the inside of the place where we would spend half of our waking hours for the next ten months. what we saw was even better than we had expected. from the gym, the dining room, the library, and the auditorium, to the tiled walls and air conditioning, the building was impressive.

but only when it is infused with the spirit of its faculty and its students does a school become more than just a building. we were eager and willing to do our part in making south a great school, but would the faculty share our enthusiasm? we forgot our fears quickly. at south we found dedicated people who not only shared their knowledge with us but who also became our friends. it didn't take us long to realize that mr. stanton was for us all of the way, and with his inspiration, we couldn't help but be proud of our school. a member of marathon house said, "your principal's a really open guy. you've got a lot going for you." we couldn't agree more.

as the days went by, our pride in our school and our accomplishments grew. being a new school, some of us were so defensive that we were irritated if someone called us weymouth high or south weymouth high instead of weymouth south high. we look back proudly at our track team's great record, and although our other teams didn't win as often, we know that they tried as hard and will be something to watch next year.

there were many special activities at south which set it apart from other schools. no matter what your political feelings are, it was difficult not to be proud when governor sargent visited us. on candidate's day, we expressed our keen interest in political elections. in january, south became the first high school audience to see the play presented by marathon house. considering the quality of the play and the fact that it was presented despite the controversy surrounding it, it is unfortunate that more of us did not see it. it was an experience not likely to be forgotten.

weymouth south has proven that liberalism in a school's policies does not lower the quality of its education. instead, it makes education more enjoyable and provides fewer reasons for student apathy. before we leave weymouth south high, we should thank our faculty and, in particular, mr. stanton, for having treated us as young adults and for having had faith in our capabilities and our judgment. we can only hope that we have fulfilled their expectations.

now that we're here
and not so good

now that our today
this everywhere we crow about is still dirtyfaced
and knobbykneed
and bad bad boyish (no matter how sweet or low
our dewdrop music dares to swing)

we have a man . . .
alive and shivery new . .
and more dusty and scraped than our hands have ever needed other hands to worry over

rumor says
he's been to hell and back and then back once more with roses
brittle as promises to show for it.

believe it if you have to.

gossips
stitch and hem and hum
a line or two that he knows the names: first last and the one in case of emergencies of every intown carnival barker and their private kewpie dolls go ahead. swallow what you need to.

lonesome (and do i mean lonesome) sidestreet knockabouts psst psst
and whisper a shrill wish of maybe that he is the salesman the jolly just-in-time man that we all have been waiting for and that he holds the jokes to help us feel less like little boys and girls well, if that's your only gospel, mister, then sing it (but sing it to yourself)

we are still poor tip-toe children
we have heard too much and we through need and a little scaredycat will send a prayer
or tell a lie
or sell our soul
for a dime's worth
just to hear a happy ending for once to watch an honest hero in the midst of our poor parade.

while old men die
lame unsatisfied and unforgiven the saviours that they would surely crawl to watch and grow old companions for a lifetime

and while we watch
and wait
for falling stars and tidal waves there is a waking miracle a gift of love
who makes mistakes
and has learned to stumble and fall gently.

no one is that faraway
he is with us·
and grows hungry
with us.
and passes by
and eats and drinks
and grows just a little tired
just like us
and watches and waits
just like us
he is with us
as close as i am to you.

a tear took hold
and washed all our faces until we were young angels again we wander through the carnival searching for our ride we've strolled from end to end in final desperation we ask a man directions the man answered quietly, "the tunnel you say?"

"why the tunnel is long gone."
"no one used it."
"but who needs it there are better rides."
"aren't there?"
valerie hogan

it descends like the north wind, it is soft like white angora, it is harsh like biting cold,
it is happy like children's laughter, it is sad like a helpless orphan, it is wonderful and awful,
it lies within us all,
it is needed by every living creature,
love.
doreen di tullio

a notice . . .
dear friend,
we have come quite a ways and though we change and split our paths
we did have great times which probably will fade as so does old snow on a young spring day . . .
i see those events, as a speck comes to my eye, as a child sees his aunt, before she dies.
i'll take all those memories,
and lock them all up,
by putting them in my past, and there they'll remain shut . . .
all those years, and the times we spent,
but when you're young, you're much the same, but as age seeps in, you see things different . . .
you're riding some dreams, which aren't so soft, you'll just have to learn by mistakes.
i've watched all this, and i've tried to help, i'll just have to visit your wake.
i can say no more, i have said enough . . .
do your so-called thing.
so goodbye old friend, i hope you learn,
before you hear the angels sing . . .
yours truly,
a friend
jonathan vickery

ultimate switch
if i were you
and
you were me,
then, we,
to each other would be drawn by curiosity
to see me as you
and
you as me . . .

knowledge and understanding result when one shares his experiences with others. that is what the members of marathon house did when they put on their "play" at south high school. the players did not point out the evils of drugs and narcotics and why you should or should not use them. they used a different approach; they acted out social problems which can lead to drug abuse, they portrayed emotions and they put on a scene of a day at marathon house.

the people who "performed" were not actors. they were people who had gone through the social problems, the drug addiction and were seeking a better way of life. portrayals of emotions, the "pot" user, embarrassing moments, the need for love and the need for someone were very convincing. one could feel himself going through the loneliness of someone who shuts himself off from others because he feels he isn't needed. many of the scenes were very touching. the experiences witnessed poke fun at the world and try to show its many problems. the members of marathon house do not preach moral values, they are friendly, compassionate human beings seeking a way to a better society.

the weymouth south wildcats in their first year of football showed courage and determination as they battled through a tough class "a" schedule. although their record was a disappointing 1-8, they showed fans and coaches that they are a team of the future. tribute should be paid to the seniors who established a standard of pride and inspiration for the young wildcats as they strive to meet the challenge of the coming season. with a large percentage of the team returning, we are optimistic about the future and eager to prove our right to represent the school and community. joseph kelly — coach cross-country

the cross-country team experienced an excellent season for a first year team. although the season started poorly with losses to waltham and brockton, the team closed well over the last weeks, barely out of second in the suburban league championships, and finishing third among 35 teams in division 3 of the state championships. the highlight of the season was south's 23-38 drubbing of arch-rival north. team captains john delorey and bob bambrick did an outstanding job in leading a team predominantly made up of sophomores. others among the top 9 on the team were seniors steve wrye and jim berry, juniors ray rose and john connell, and sophomores jeff campbell, francis o'keefe, randy clark, and bill taber. co-captains-elect jeff campbell and francis o'keefe anticipate a strong team next year to develop from those underclassmen mentioned above together with returnees ron ritchie, len holmes, larry holmes, tom frazar, gary gibbons, doug macswan, jim walker, and steve o'brien. edward meehan — coach hockey weymouth south's hockey team enjoyed a very spirited and successful season while competing in its initial campaigns in the strong suburban league. considerable improvement was demonstrated, but hard luck played its triumphant hand; thus, the wildcats culminated their season with a 7-11 win-loss record. the hockey team was led by two responsible and hardworking co-captains, paul garvey and steve wrye, both league all-star selections. other seniors who were responsible for team improvement and morale were bob mc monagle, ron pompeo, and artie silva. the standards set by these seniors should help mold the future winning spirit for south's hockey teams. thomas walker — coach basketball with the opening of the basketball season, the south team found themselves playing in the suburban league without any lettermen. the season has been disappointing as far as winning goes; however, the team has been playing well in the last part of the season. and hopes are high for next season. gary morin and dick adams, both juniors, have been the team's leading players and should be outstanding players in their senior year. joining adams and morin will be steve harris, joe shields, ron casey, steve kemp, mike quinn, ray quinn, richard gifford, tom melanson, and ray scanlon from this year's varsity. with a year's varsity experience, there should be a marked improvement in next season's team. john fleming — coach

boys' gymnastics
the boys' gymnastic team had a 5-5 season this year with big wins over weymouth north and north quincy. being an inexperienced team accounted for losing three meets by less than a full point. bob jensen, bill thorne, ulick mahoney, and mike doherty all qualified for the state individual championships in their special events: jensen on rings, thorne on long horse vaulting, mahoney on long horse vaulting, and doherty on floor exercise. the team's average score was 73.00 points, exceptionally good for a first year team. james corrigan — coach girls' gymnastics

the girls' gymnastics team took the suburban league championship with a record of six wins and no losses. outstanding seniors who qualified for the state individuals are: bonnie corrigan, all-around, carol hartry, floor exercise and vaulting; and claudia neil, uneven bars. the state team meet is february 27th at longmeadow high school where they will be competing against the top two teams in five leagues for state championship. susan gifford — coach winter track

the indoor track team made a successful debut. in its first season weymouth south was undefeated victor of the division 3 metropolitan league championship. led by co-captains bob bambrick and john delorey, the team was victorious in eight straight dual meet contests including a non-league win over class a power beverly. the key to south's success was overall depth in every event with particular strength in the 50 yd. dash, high hurdles, high jump, and a relay team which was able to win whenever it was necessary. school recordholders in individual events at the close of the season were: high jump, gary heinstrom, 6'0"; shot put, walter smith, 4088"; 50 yd. dash, chris howlett, 5.5 sec.; 300 yd. run, john trotto, 35.6 sec.; 600 yd. run, stephen hunter, 1:18.2; 1000 yd. run, stephen hunter, 2:28.2; mile run, john delorey, 4:49.2; 2-mile run, jeff campbell, 10:30.6; and high hurdles, gary heinstrom, 6.2 sec. the best relay team was comprised of dick drake, john trotto, john delorey, joe dalton, and steve hunter. next year's team should again be a strong one, but will have to make up for the departure of co-captains delorey and bambrick, gary heinstrom, dick drake, john trotto, chris howlett, jim dever, jim vaille, kevin flaherty, and cort naegelin. edward meehan — coach wrestling

the wrestling team, with mostly underclassmen, gained valuable experience this year. each boy showed a great deal of progress throughout the season. ralph jannino — coach

WEYMOUTH SOUTH HIGH SCHOOL

CLASS OF 1971

CLASS HISTORY

CLASS PROPHECY

CLASS WILL

CLASS OF 1971

CLASS HISTORY

The Class of '71 has come a long way since the tenth grade. We have been moved from school to school and split up, but we finally made it to our senior year. The Weymouth Class of '71 is the only one in the history of Weymouth to attend four different schools, including junior high--all of which were unique and interesting in their own right.

The wandering Class of '71 first came together under one roof in the gloriously old Annex, which is still embedded in all of our memories. It was very old and crowded, but we did have some excitement. Ask any senior what the most outstanding event of his sophomore year was. He is bound to answer, "The sit-down strike, of course!" The Annex is also remembered for its fabulous lunch lines and eating accomodations.

Our Senior Class Officers will never forget the tenth grade dance which very few students attended, therefore, costing the class $350. During the year, our class also participated in a Mardi-gras at North High, an awards assembly at the Annex, and an exchange concert. During our sophomore year, the football team was undefeated.

After our sophomore year, which seemed to go on forever, our class was moved to Weymouth North High, or the "new" high school, as it was then called. Things began to happen in our junior year. As juniors we were no longer set apart from the high school in another building--we were actually part of it. The first few weeks of school we were absolutely lost. The worst part of it was that the seniors knew where they were going so we were being laughed at on every wrong turn we took. After the first four weeks, we could just about get to classes before the bell.

The most outstanding thing which happened in our junior year was the changing of the dress code so that girls could wear pants in cold weather and boys didn't have to wear ties. A few other memories from Weymouth North are fire drills in the cafeteria, pitching pennies in the courtyard, and the biology bunny. When we think of our junior year, we also remember n.o.w. (news on Wednesday), the fabulous lunch lines, the traditional prom movie, and "We Care Week." Do you remember the show our exchange students presented us? Another outstanding event of the year was the graduation of the seniors. After they left, we were the only ones in North High. It was also the last year our class would be together.

As of September 1970 there was no longer a single class of '71. Our class was split but we're still going strong.

Weymouth South High School first opened for classes on September 9, 1970. Students entered wide-eyed and curious about what they would find. During the first weeks of school, students expressed their feelings about the new building. It was dark, cold, had many stairs, was confusing and didn't have enough windows. The new senior class missed the courtyards and windows the most. All students were equally lost for the first weeks, so we all began on common ground. A unique feature of South High is classes containing all grades. All classes work together.

At first students didn't like the idea of being split, but as the year wore on and school spirit soared, everyone was proud of South High and everything about it.

South was different from all other schools in the town from the start. Students have been given more freedom in school. and we are now able to take an active part in the administration of our school with the help of the faculty.

Our senior year has been our most successful and enjoyable year, thanks to Mr. Stanton, Mr. Granai, Mr. Wheeler, our class advisors and our hard working class officers. The entire year has been exciting and rewarding with activities throughout. A pep rally started the year off with strong school spirit. Students even donated money to buy a wildcat costume for the football season. There was also an open house and a visit by Govenor Sargent. Other activities that kept students involved were the two candy sales and a magazine sale. There were also many productions such as "Don't Drink the Water," "Camelot," the Talent Show, and "The Crucible."

Sports highlighted the year. The winter track team and the girls' gymnastics team both won championships. Many spectator sports were also offered money-making projects such as the Donkey Basketball game, the Gymnastics Show by Kathy Corrigan's School, and faculty-student basketball and volleyball games.

A very outstanding event of the year was the play presented by Marathon House. The entire day was spent seeing and discussing the play. The History Department also presented two Candidates' Days that informed students of town government and the candidates' views.

South High has proved itself unique in many ways this year. Miss Chittenden should be applauded for her work in both the book store and the Continental room. A privilege which the senior class enjoys is the opening of the rec room during study periods. Mr. Granai should be honored for supplying ping pong balls and keeping the Pepsi machine filled.

Our senior year is rapidly coming to a close, and the Weymouth South Class of '71 will be together for only a few more days. Soon each of us will go our separate ways, but we shall all hold in our memories the great fun and excitement, sorrow and disappointments of our school years. Most of all, we shall remember our senior year, and we will be proud to say, "We were the first to graduate from Weymouth South High School."

Here ends the Class History of the Weymouth South Class of '71--"We have only just begun."

Written by Elaine Osgood, with the help of Diane Parmenter.

CLASS PROPHECY

1. Michael Drinan will receive the golden drum stick award at the age of 103.

2. Sue-Carol Moran will organize a world-wide talent show featuring a herd of wild Brahma cows which not only dance but sing.

3. Joan Berry and Lynn Bachelder will coach the Olympic track team of the U.S.

4. Debbie Hannafin will be the blushing bride of Rudolph Nuryev.

5. Cathy Hamill will be the first female truant officer in Weymouth.

6. Peggy Barrett will be a medical missionary nun.

7. Lauren Kuja will be the stand in for Doris Day on the Doris Day Show.

8. Barbara Mell will maintain her way through life displaying her multitudinous talents.

9. John Tormey will be the hairiest, most talkative monk that ever lived.

10. Danny Alosa will shave at the age of 65 and find that he's really not Danny Alosa, but Arthur Rubenstein in disguise.

11. Dianne Grady will be the President elect of the Oscar Myer Weiner Company.

12. Ted Wilcox will teach a seminar in advanced humility based on ten years experience of eating humble pie.

13. Ellen Callahan will edit Emily Post's new book on manners.

14. Mary Ann O'Malley will found a hippie colony.

15. Nancy Cruikshanks will bring new life to the Front Street Cemetary.

57. Alan Follett will be to the U.S., what Shakespeare was to England.

58. Ned Clapp will win the National Chopper Shop award and receive as his prize a new leather and a new set of shades.

CLASS WILL

Mr. Stanton - A lifetime membership to the country club. We also leave him a set of golf clubs. Not for golfing, but for snagging students who are trying to skip.

Mr. Wheeler - An appointment with a speech therapist so that he may be able to pronounce names properly.

Mr. Kelly - Cigars to relieve your tensions, No-doze to keep you awake during your lectures, lollipops for your next date with Miss Chittenden, and knickers to be dressed for the occasion.

Mr. Lang - For the man who can dodge a 45 bullet, we leave a superman outfit plus a chest and mouth to fit it.

Miss Finn - Dorsels.

To the Pillsbury Doughboy - Mr. Masters - we leave a pop-and-fresh class of students, for too often your pupils become stale listening to you.

Mr. Blake - All the students who will need psychological help after attending some of Mr. Masters' classes.

Coach Kelly - Two nickel bags--one for half time and one for full time use.

We ask Mrs. Cronin not to suppress her students. It's not fair for a teacher to make a student wash her floors at home at 11 p.m., just because she said she had the right to speak.

Mr. Joel - 75 protein pills. If you start to move around a little fast, it may be because some aren't protein pills.

Mr. Duseau - French cuisine and a black jelly bean.

Mr. Souke - A quart of milk and chocolate chip cookies.

Mr. O'Malley - Milk, the vitality drink, and for his slower days, a bottle of Geritol.

Mr. Worcester - Wind-up Joe Kemski dolls to bring him coffee and doughnuts, and for an added attraction, it may even do some work.

Mr. Morse - The book, "The World Needs More Humanization Than Scientific Know-How."

Mr. O'Meara - A solution and it's up to him to guess whether it's Nitroglyceron, a strong acid, or a radioactive liquid isotope. If you have the idea we want to get rid of you, perish the thought.

Mr. Fox - The address of all the seniors so that he may get new customers for his milk truck route. After all, we must help support those who teach us.

Mr. McCarthy - A year's free board at the Sheraton to test his 10,000 nubian dancers.

Mr. Troupe - A lifetime membership in the S. D. S., with a direct line to Barry Goldwater and Danny Ray.

Mrs. Lutz - A black tokenism to sit in on her class, so that the students may gasp and shriek, while turning various shades of pale. Imagine the horror on their faces when they realize that there are really such beings as black people.

Mr. Tedesco - A dark room for research and development of his peace symbols.

Mr. Mosca - A case of "Raid" and three fly swatters.

Mr. Porter - Since we want to be consistent with your wife who makes you all these cool, reversable clothes, we're leaving you a classroom that's reversable. No matter which door you come in, all the students will seem not to be there. Maybe because they aren't.

Miss Bohme - We wish you all the luck in the world in your future life. Did you know some of us know about your engagement before you did?

Mr. Roberts - Your prize dream come true--Ross Greenwood on a dissection table. This may get back some of the anguish you have suffered during the year.

Mr. Dorr - The book, "200 ways to Make Students Collect Insects." And when he has enough, we leave him John Grosses book, "The Tantalizing Tickles of Sautered Insects."

We ask Mr. Gage to leave his book, "Life Inside the Ping Pong Ball," in the Rec Room.

Mr. Fleming - We advise you to change your offense from the shuffle to two step.

Mr. Donovan - The pamphlet, "How to be a Successful Coach Without Having a Successful Team."

Mr. Rando - A collapsible podium, so he'll never be without one.

Mr. Fortier - A class that appreciates the 35-cent words which you use.

Mr. Doherty - Mrs. Doherty.

Mrs. Doherty - Mr. Doherty.

Mr. Pierce - A pair of white sox.

Mr. Granai - A student skip detector. This will enable him to detect seniors who skip and go to the "Wreck Room." We also leave him a harness for the senior class president so that he won't run off and get sunburned too often.

Dr. Adams - We leave Johnny Cash's album containing "The Impossible Dream," and "What Is Truth," and we hope that you find them both.

Math Department - A can of Lysol to improve the visibility in cigar haven.

English Department - Animal crackers to eat while you're watching your favorite cartoons in the afternoon.

History Department - A ping pong table to teach your students "ping pong" diplomacy so that they may understand the Chinese diplomacy a little bit better.

Language Department - A translator so that you may be able to understand the students.

Science Department - Kevin Robertson.

To the rest of the school, we leave our love and appreciation for being our friends and advisors. Please learn to love and grow together, for if we don't, the next Will will be mankind lost.
